LAUREL WREATH

Lancaster Mennonite School
Lancaster, Pennsylvania

Volume XX

Editor—Daniel S. Hess

A. Grace Wenger

IN DEDICATION

We entered the world of the masters,
and by your gentle guidance
explored the beauties and depths of the classics.
Then in our growing esteem, we smiled with respect,
for we recognized you as kin to the great.

For insisting upon our prime, seasoned with struggles,
For instilling your ardor for life and
literature within us,
For proving a comrade when meting
out assignments,
For impersonating the very spirit of LMS,
For living as a volume of poetry
with tangible and impalpable values,
We, in response to your devoted service, Sister A. Grace Wenger, dedicate our 1966 Laurel Wreath to you.

"O Father, we thank you
for records of great lives.
May we follow Thee as they have done, that we,
with them, may be great with Thee."

Empty and alone they strive until from the void burst the beauties of friendship and understanding through exchange.

To discover LMS is to breathe in and out with her—grasp her spirit, then blend into the life of

Socializing at lockers before chapel—

Long windy walks and talks—

Discussions which begin over grub-laden trays

and progress over empty trays—

Soft whispers and shuffling papers in a stifling study hall—

Lick of a sucker for a smudge of ice cream—

Lengthy car rides home

This game of give-and-take is a two way street - not ceasing with our exodus from the classroom, but wanting to persist throughout life

Education is association (not merely an accumulation of hard, cold facts), and life is brotherhood defining UNDERSTANDING THROUGH EXCHANGE

FACULTY

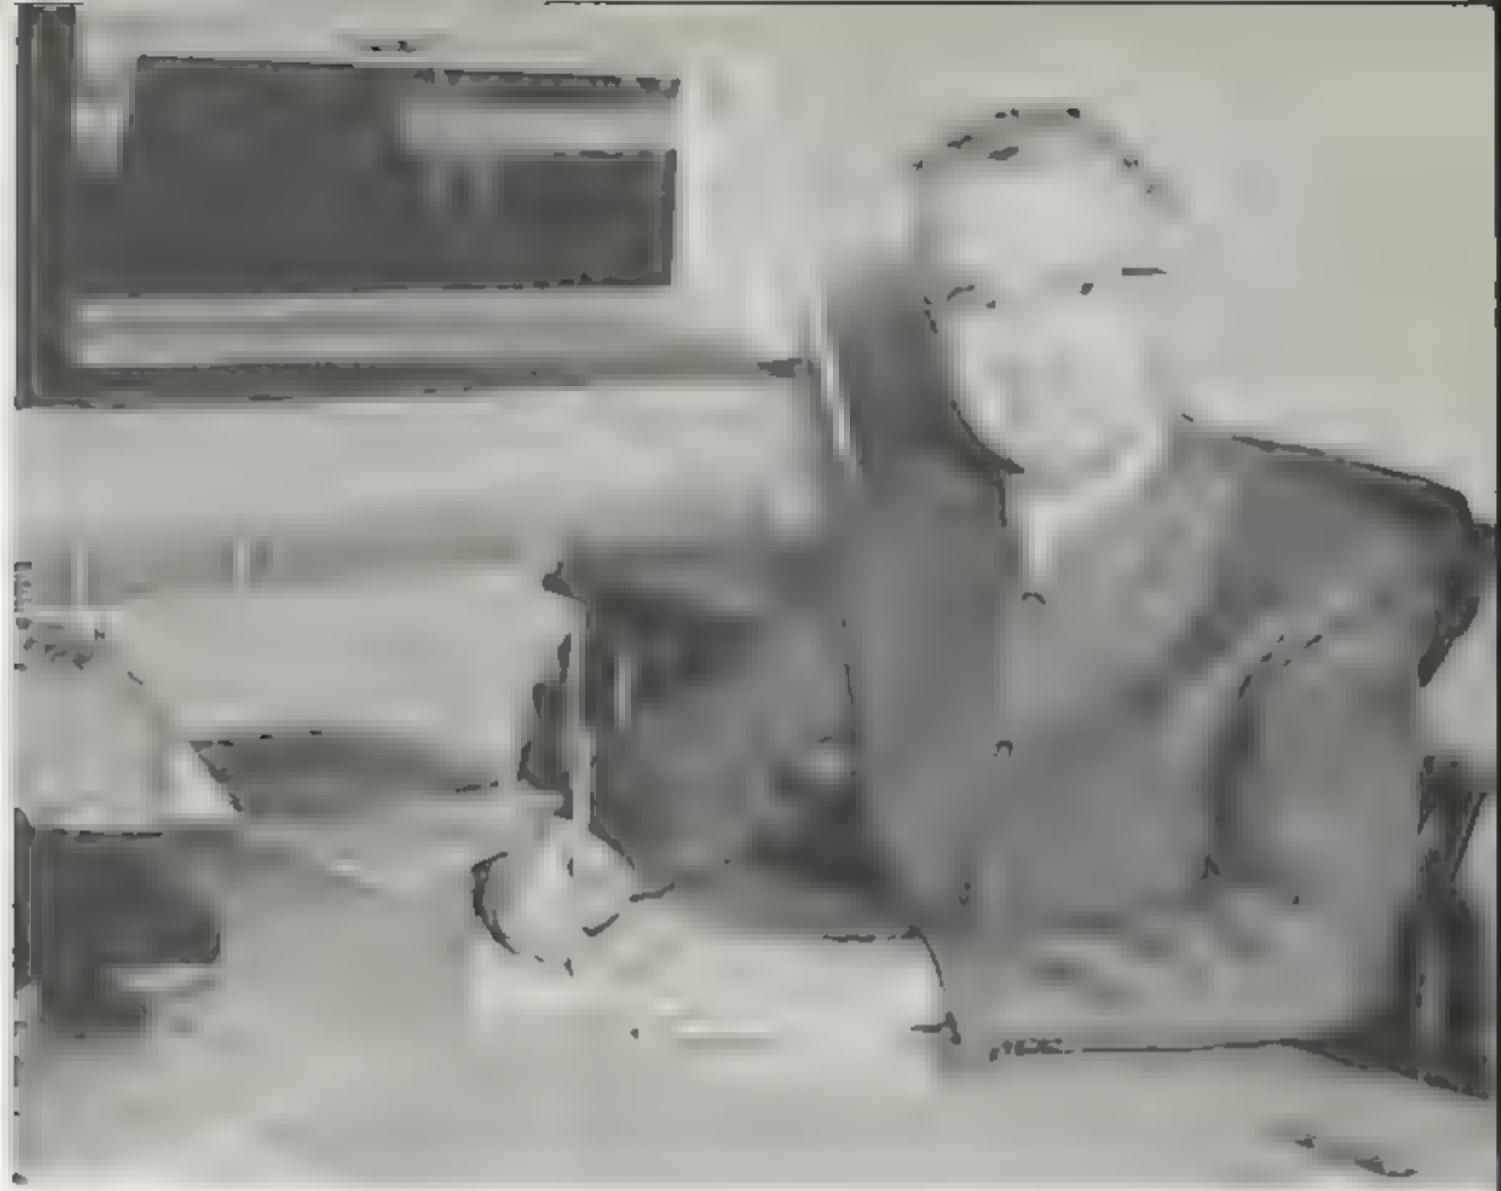

Pause for a proper introduction to the ranks of the coffee-sippers (some of the number profess to be teetotalers). Glimpse the recesses of their beings and discover individuals who rouse men and minds, exercise by struggling with a geometric proof, study the Dow-Jones Average for relaxation, peruse Thoreau's philosophy, and sharpen their pencils to sketch lines of ideas and advice on their subjects. A band of the concerned and devoted, our Faculty.

STUDENTS

Meet the sages, jokers, the pace-setters and followers, the daring, the dawdlers, the inquiring. From beneath lectures, deadlines, peppy discussions, and prolonged periods of reverie emerge the distinguishable twangs of the expansion of wits and amity. For through the sounds and silences of seeking they encounter reality, and in determining their niche in life, they discern true knowledge.

ORGANIZATIONS

Thumb through the files and read of the organized and their pursuits—or follow them in their enterprises to realize their functions. Pass a chef's club zealot and smell the crafts of his trade. Behind the binoculars, enthusiasts are presumably attempting to identify your call, while the radio club crew ventures a conversation in Morse Code. The frazzled and battered likely fill positions on Student Forum or are uncanny members of a publication staff. (Regard them with compassion and tolerance). They go and meet purpose and pleasure.

ACTIVITIES

Give ear to vitality. Take note of vim, likewise stamina. Embodied in term papers, clanging bells, toasted cheese sandwiches, push-ups and side-straddle hops is the beat of life. For enveloped in grimy sweatshirts and embedded in grins dwells LMS. Brawn and its spoils, agility in physique, winners in wit—Behold the young and their ventures.

For success in dining, first establish a good rhythm: a bite of bun,

WORSHIP

Sip or gulp—it's your option. Choose to merely taste; then learn of fatherly advice fabricated behind shriveled eyelids, grace before macaroni and cheese, doctrine rules from well-preserved parchments, prayer circles for the faithful. Now contemplate on the dealings of those who embrace the practice of swallowing. For they procure invigoration at the Spring, granting an eternity of Life. In them is the breath and spirit of true worship.

REFLECTIONS OF THY LOVE

Marlin Lehman

Reflect . . . reflect . . . your love, O Christ,
Wherein our paths may lead;
Be Thou our Master and our Guide
That we may live and love for Thee.

Shine in our hearts as we go forth
Your love to light our very lives;
That through the years of misty time
The world will see our love is Thine

Yet far above the love we love; there's Love that lights a sparkled way;
Reflect from our hearts and lives, O God, Reflections of Thy Love.

In rays of shadow and deepening despair
Reflect your love . . . to each his share.
That mountains and valleys, high and low
Will see reflections of glory below.

Blaze in our hearts your purest love;
Reflect good news as did the dove;
Fill our cups to overflow, that
We might see reflections grow.

Tear down the terrace, build up each leaf,
Lead our footsteps in love beneath
Above all, O Christ, hear our cries
To reflect Thy love that never dies

Reflect . . . reflect . . . your love, O Christ,
Wherein our paths may lead;
Be Thou our Master and our Guide
That we may live and love for Thee.

Yet far above the love we love; there's Love that lights a sparkled way;
Reflect from our hearts and lives, O God, Reflections of Thy Love.

"A good preparation for a real raw world," they tab
our comely campus.

"Herein have we found the seeds of cooperation,
harmony, and comprehension!" we shout.

Now at the dawn of our day we step out to take from life's cold hand, projected horizons and avenues of opportunity, craving warmth gained by

Understanding Through Exchange.

The Staff of this 1966 LAUREL WREATH dedicates this space to showing appreciation for the fine cooperation and contributions which have made this book what it is:

First we thank Marian M. Longenecker and Luke J. Shank for their dedicated help and guidance as advisers.

Mr. Paul Peel of Peel's Studios, Lancaster, receives a hearty thanks for his time and pains in producing expert photography.

We also appreciate the photography work done by Elton G. Moshier and the student photographers.

We cannot forget the helpfulness and cooperation of the Mennonite Publishing House in Scottdale in producing this book.

Credit goes to the National Publishing House of Philadelphia for our fine cover.

The hard work of the typists has not gone unappreciated.

Thank you goes to the senior girls who assisted in writing script.

And finally thank you to all those students who have faithfully sold our annual.
